Description

FEAL specializes in designing aluminum systems and the further processing of aluminum. The slogan under which we operate is: Quality first! Bearing in mind the dynamic and demanding market that is constantly changing, we answered with the modern equipment of the plant for aluminum extrusion, electrostatic powder coating and anodizing anode, as well as machinery for the processing of aluminum profiles. The products that we market are various types of aluminum structures used in construction and industry. Our development is based solely on creating our own team of experts that monitors global trends in design and offer a complete series for the production of aluminum. Alloy systems with its design can be adapted to the specific needs of clients in architecture and industry from concept to finalized product.
